A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effec-tual Cure for it. Catarrh of the stomach has long been Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, language from the first feeling.

wousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a silmy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia. Tablets, and, not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting will follow their regular use after meals. Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes; "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, Modical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach, without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation, as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy, for any foun of indigestion, Catarrh of stomach, billousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

REVERCOMB AND FLOOD

Joint Debate When the Republicans Had Few Sympathizers.

(Special to The Times-Disputch.) AMHERST, VA., October 17 .- The cam paign opened here to-day with a field day for Democracy. Judge White did not open court until 2 o'clock, and the politicians had full sway. Despite the terrible dust, which now fills the roads, a tremendous crowd was on hand to greet the speakers. This was the first appearance of Governor Montague in this county, and many of our citizens were anxious to hear him. Then Amherst crowds never tire of joint discussions and the discus-hear him. Then Amness the discussion between Messrs, Flood and Revercomb brought out many people. Governor Montague's speech preceded the joint discussion between the candidates for Congress. He had been mot at the depot by a committee of citizens and escorted to the court-green, where the speaking took place.

A large platform had been erected and the crowd comfortably seated themselves on the grass around the stand.

Governor Montague was introduced by Mr. C. L. Scott, of Amherst. His speech was a powerful arraignment of President Roosevelt and his administration, and a magnificent exposition of the principles of the Democratic party. His indictment of Roosevelt was especially terrific, He took up his record on the trust question, the pension and race question and assalled his position on each of these questions. He said that Roosevelt, though and assalled his position on each of these questions. He said that Roosevelt, though posing as a brave man, had never done any act of bravery. That his regiment had been rescued from a dangerous position at San Juan by a negrol regiment, and that perhaps this was why he now showed such friendliness to the negroes. Many people were heard to remark at the close of the Governor's speech that it was one of the most powerful political speeches that they had ever heard. It the close of the Governors speech that it was one of the most powerful political speeches that they had ever heard. It was of a high order and set the people, who heard him, to thinking about the political issues, as they had not before thought of them. Governor Montague left on the 1:47 o'clock train for Richmond.

Flood opened the joint discussion in an hour. Mr. Revercomb replied in an hour and a half, and Mr. Flood closed in an half hour. Mr. Flood defended his record in Congress and assailed the record of his opponent in the State Senate. He had with lim the acts of 1903-04 showing that out of a total of 202 duys of the session, Mr. Revercomb had been present only forty. He showed that he had been absent while measures of importance were being considered, and asked with telling effect how he could ask the people to send him to Congress after such a record. Mr. Revercomb replied by charging Mr. Flood with having served as congressman and member of the Constitutional Convention at the same time. He spoke of the prosin an hour. Mr. Revercomb replied in an at the same time. He spoke of the pro perity of the country and claimed credit for it for the Republican party. for it for the Republican party.

Mr. Flood aroused great enthusiasm in his rejoinder. The crowd cheered his telling hits to the echo. He referred to the number of rural delivery routes, which he had established and his other efforts in behalf of his constituncy. Mr. Flood was introduced by Mr. Stickley Tucker, while Mr. S. C. Allen introduced Mr.

public buildings, in 124 cities and towns, in thirty-seven States, the princely sum of $30,000,000.

Proceeding, Mr. Shaw said:

"In an unguarded moment Judge Parker invited comparisons between an administration which borrowed more money than it made betterments, and had nothing to bequeath but a bankrupted country and a disrupted party, with an administration which made the maximum of public improvements, reduced the interest-bearing debt, and had a handsome balance in the bank as a guaranty of future progress. Ah, Judge Parker, do you not know and will you not learn that the test of statesmanship is not the little that is accomplished amidst severest travail, but the much that is achieved with no inconvenience and amid universal rejoicings?"

Mr. Shaw said in conclusion: "I submit it is unfair to charge, as Judge Parker does, to administrative extravagance the cost of public buildings, battleships, navy yards, mall routes, and the expense of transporting last year over two hundred and fifty tons more mail than was carried during a like period of Mr. Cleveland's administration."

"Postal receipts have increased three fold since the first date with which Judge Parker seeks to establish an unfavorable comparison, but his comparison is seemingly unfavorable only because he includes among the expenditures the cost of postoffice administration and omits to give credit for the increased receipts. Annual postal receipts have increased one dollar per capitation and instruction, with which, in another place, he seeks comparison, but fails to give credit therefor."

"Economy is a good thing to preach, and it is a better thing to practice, but economy and statesmanship are not synonymous terms. The issue ought never to be who spends the least money but rather who has the most to show for money spent."
